Your Turn Now.

The trade temperature is going up and up. Wanamaker's doors will be kept wide enough open to let it in, and plenty of the Very Best Clothing.

The prosaic part of this Spring's business isn't to be found in the goods. That's certain.

We never had such pleasure in putting style and needlework into cloth. It didn't need grit one bit more than wit to choose out from the legions of handsome fabrics the manufacturers brought us the handsomest in stripes, plaids, mixtures and happy combinations of color that are on our counters to - day in Spring Suits.

You'll like them. We should put a discount on your bright judgment if we said otherwise. It'll give us a tighter hold on your good will as well as enjoyable work to sell them.

Our Spring Oversacks stand on the high platform of as good as made-to-measure. You can get as good as ours in that way if you go to a tip-top merchant tailor. We're fearless enough to say-Don't take one that doesn't fit as if made for you. Your choice rests solely on whether you want luxury or not.

That controls the prices. You and we know that prices control trade. That's the very thing we're after. Are you willing to pay the least? Come to Wanamaker's!

Attacks Upon the New Empress—The Lat-ter's Interview With Prince Bismarck— Chamberlain's Latest—The Epsom Spring Meeting — Matthew Arnold Criticised The Paris Bourse Weakened by the Bou

ial Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch LONDON, April 11.—The accounts of the dismarck crisis continue confused and conctory. It is so far clear that Bismarck's resignation is not accepted. Hence it may be assumed that the projected royal marriage is indefinitely postponed. If Bismarck persists n resigning, his place will probably be taken Lorraine. Petitions pour in upon the Emperor, begging him not to permit the Chancelor's retirement, and the patriotic considerations ted in these carry additional weight, owing to the success of Gen. Boulanger, larity in France is universally referred to as a danger to Germany.

THE EMPRESS. Attacks, more or less velled, have been made with much persistency upon the new Empress since her husband's accession, especially in the organs of the privileged classes. the popular enthusiasm with which she was received yesterday on the occasion of her visit to Posen to inquire into the condition of the sufferers by the recent inundation.

DUBLIN, April 11.—The trial of the man Cournane on the charge of killing old man Quirks near Trales, County Kerry, on the night of November 7 last, has just been concluded at Wicklow. Cournage was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but was commended to mercy.

PARIS, April 11.—The Bourse was weak today on account of the Boulanger prepaganda.

Noisy political meetings were held at Rou-baix and Avesnes, Department of the Nord, last night. The orators had much diffieuity in speaking, so great was the confusion. The majority of the people at the meetings appeared to favor Gen. Boulanger. A Socialist meeting was held at Lille, in the same Department, and a resolu-tion was passed pledging the workingmen to support M. Foucard, Gen. Boulanger's op-

MORE HOPEFUL.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER IN THE CON-DITION OF MR. CONKLING.

The Sufferer Passes a Fairly Good Night and Enjoys Refreshing Sleep This Morning— The Doctors More Hopeful—Mrs. Conk-

New York, April 11. - There is no material hange in the condition of ex-Senator Conkling's health this morning. At 6:20 o'clock while suffering from one of the periodical at-tacks of delirium, Mr. Conkling paced up and down the sick chamber. After ten minutes he became exhausted and once more sank on the bed. It was not long until he was fast asieep. His physicians say that much depends upon the condition of their patient when he awakens and are on the tip-toe of expectancy. Up to 8 o'clock the sufferer was still sleeping much more peacefully than he has for some time past. At 8 o'clock Mr. Conkling was still sleeping, which was regarded by the phy-sicians as a more than ordinary good forebod-

BEGINNING TO RECOVER. Dr. Barker called at the residence of ex-Senator Conkling this morning at ten minute past 9 o'clock and found his patient resting peacefully. The doctor felt the patient's pulse and found it more regular than it has been for several days. Mr. Conkling awoke and cordially shook hands with his physician, who at once asked him if he would not take some soothing medicine. The sufferer promptly replied in the affirmative and took the medicine offered him. Subsequently Dr Barker, in the form of an official builetin announced to the members of the press tha

Mr. Conkling was beginning to recover. "I marked change for the better," he added past winter, running them into Texas and Conkling is much better this morning. In fact, he is much better this morning than he has been at least ten days, and enjoyed mor refreshing sleep during the night than he has for over ten days."

GREATLY IMPROVED Edward Stokes visited Mr. Conkling at 'clock. When he came out he said: "I never was more surprised in my life than to see the mproved condition of Mr. Conkling. Yesterday I believed he would not recover and sent a telegram to that effect. To-day he was sir-ting up in his bed and recognized me."

Among a large number of people who called at Mr. Conkling's residence to inquire after his condition was ex-Secretary Windom Dr. Barker said this morning that he wished to correct some reports that had appeared concerning the patient that he had at any time been violent. He had been at all times Dr. Barker says that he had hopes, and had by no means given up his distinguished pa tient. This morning, as usual, he had taken Mrs. Conkling was feeling very much encouraged this morning. She said her husband had been rational part of the time and had slept at intervals during the night.

AN ALARMING CHANGE.

3 p. m.—At 3 o'clock Dr. Barker called on Mr. Conkling. He said: "I don't think that he is as strong as he was this morning. He took some milk and is now sleeping quietly. He lost considerable ground since this morning. There is still some hope for his recovery unless some complications in the region of the masterial sets in."

A reporter in consultation in the region of the masterial sets in."

A reporter, in conversation with a prominent physician who does not want his name published, learned some new facts. The physician said: "Mr. Conkling, if he had mastorid trouble alone, the pus having been removed, he would recover; but if he had meningitis also he would die." In view of this statement the reporter asked Dr. Barker if Mr. Conkling had meningitis. He said: "There is a tendency that way, and should it run into meningitis, it would be a matter of twenty-four hours."

Dr. Sands called at 2:30 o'clock and dressed the wound. He found Mr. Conkling sitting up, but unconscious.

This let them into the hallway. Here they were confronted by the stone wall of the jail. Some time ago some prisoners had escaped through this hall by removing a large stone from the outside wall. This had been replaced by the officers and securely bolted by four iron bolts. The prisoners last night sawed these bolts in two, removed the rock and set themselves free. John Jones was raised in this county, and over a year ago was working in the Indian Territory with a young man by the name of Rhen. Jones persuaded Rhen through friendship to make a visit to his father's with him in this county, and when about one mile from his father's house Jones killed Rhen for his money John Bowles was held here under an indictment for forgery. Howard was a prisoner from Bates County, brought here for safe-keeping, enarged with larceny. It is supposed that Mrs. Bowles furnished the saw which they used to good effect, as she visited her husband last Friday at the jail. Sheriff Hill is out with a posse of men in pursuit.

When Miss Fox made her appearance she seemed like a little tot in the vast hail and on the large stage surrounded by the orchestra, but when she sang her first selection she fairly astonished the audience by the volume of her voice, and its excellent quality and timbre. Her voice is soprano with a mezzo quality and while it is not yet fully matured, every note was heard in every part of the hall. Her voice is better in the upper than the lower register, and the high notes were admirably brought out with strength and spirit. Her first selection was a waltz song by Pattison, with orchestral accompaniment, and it must be confessed that while some natural nervousness was visible in her manner she reached a remarkable result under the circumstances and won the instant favor of the audience, being recailed after the song. She cannot fail to repeat the hit of this morning with much better effect at the concert.

They deny every allegation of undue influence and fraud on the part of Mrs. Dickey. They say that she did not poison her husband's mind against his children, and that he was not prevented from making another will in their favor by his wife's refusal to let them see a lawyer on his death bed. It is insisted that Judge Dickey's will leaving all his property to his wife was the expression of his real intention.

S. FOTHERINGHAM'S CASE AGAINST THE

The eighth day of the trial of David S. Fothingham's suit against the Adams Express Company for damages for false imprison-ment began this morning in the d States Circuit Court with production on the stand by plaintiff of George F. Johnson, baggage train man for the Fert Scott & Gulf at Kansas City. He was put on to corroborate Fother-ingham's claim that it was the custom of messengers to carry strangers who came to them with letters from the General Agent, Route Agent or Superintendent, directing the messengers to carry the bearers. Mr. Johnson was formerly a messenger in the employ of the Adams Ex-press Company. During his experience in such employment he said he carried three strangers who came to him with letters. Two of them had passes also. The third, named Craig, was sent to him by R. S. Lukenbill, the Superintendent at Kansas City, with only a letter. He took Craig to Springfield and return, showing him how the business was conducted. He did not speak to the conductor about having a man in his car, was never reported for carrying the man without a pass and did not know whether the HAIGHT'S DEPOSITION. The reading of the deposition of W. W. Haight, taken in the penitentiary at Jefferson City in January, 1887, for use in the case of the State against Fotheringham, was then concluded by H. D. Laughlin and Mr. Harvey. The reading of Wittrock's deposition was concluded yesterday afternoon, and then also the direct examination of Haight was read. At the conclusion Charles P. Johnson read the last letter writton by "Jim Cummings," which was found buried with other belongings of Wittrock after his arrest, transmitted by the detectives to the Globe-Democras and published in that paper. It was very impressively read, and produced many smiles.

Wm. J. Hart, who is employed by the Circuit Court Clerk, was the next witness. He was a Deputy Sheriff in November, 1886. He was told by the Chief Deputy at the Four Courts to get from the Clerk of the Criminal Court, Ben Finney, a bench warrant for the arrest of D. S. Fotheringham. The witness obtained the warrant and was told to go with Detective Furlong and Marshall F. McDonald, who would point Fotheringham out to him Heleft the Four Courts in company with Furlong and McDonald. On the Eleventh street side of the building two carriages were standing. Mansfield, Mo., stepfather of the plaintiff, told how Route Agent J. B. Barrett had appeared in Mansfield a few days after the robbery, represented that he wanted to buy land, and had tried to pump witness concerning his knowledge of the robbery. A few days later Barrett had appeared in his true character with a detective by the name of Wing. They examined Roote fully concerning Fotheringham, his past life, associations and expenses. They inquired particularly if David had made any presents to his relatives or friends and Mr. Roote had given the witness. Wing, the detective, led the conversation to train robbing and indoreed the methods of the James gang. His conversation made the witness very indignant, and he requested that it be stopped. A few days after the robbery a letter arrived at Mansfield purporting to come from "Jim Cummings," and addressed to "Mrs. Roote, nee Fotheringham." Mrs. Roote nee Fotheringham." Mrs. Roote had gone to St. Louis to see her son worth $20 he thought—and a slik handkerchief he had given the witness. A few days after the robbery a letter arrived at Mansfield purporting to come from "Jim Cummings," and addressed to "Mrs. Roote, nee Fotheringham." Mrs. Roote opened it. It contained $90 in currency. He showed the letter to the postmaster and subsequently gave it to Barrett who sent for him the morning the letter arrived. On cross-examination Mr. Laughlin attempted to attack the witness' record. He asked: "Do you know a man by the contained of Moderary of McGerry (Green Govern)." record. A WONDERFUL WOMAN.

Mrs. Ros. Sabine of 15th and Morgan sts., has acquired the reputation of being a phenomenal success in the fortune-telling business. As strange as it may appear, some of the leading men on 'Change and members of the leading clubs are her regular patrons, and some of them have paid her enormous amounts for information which they have obtained through her. She is peculiarly correct in all her work, telling some of them things that they thought unknown, and they look upon her as a wonderful woman. Her large, eleganity furnished parlors are always crowded with the leading ladies and gentlemen of the city.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 11.—The American heirs of Philip Francis Renault, in his day a courtier and favorite of King Louis XV. of France, have recently organized an associa-tion for prosecuting in the Court of Claims of heir inheritances to estates in Missouri and nois, which that personage owned at his death, about the year 1750, and which prop-The heirs in question now number some four of whom are residents of Central and Southern New York and Northern Pennsylvania. name Reno, as pronounced. L. G. Reno of Cooperstown, N. Y., is President of the Association.

The French King granted to his favorite, some years previous to the latter's death, a tract of land three miles wide and fitteen miles long in Illinois, on which part of the city of Peoria now stands; also nearly 100,000 acres of choice mining and farming lands in Missouri, a part of which lies in the suburbs of St. Louis. Philip Francis Renault died in Paris, as stated, about the year 1750, departing intestate and without issue. His heirs by blood were his two brothers, Armand and Jacques Renault, both of whom had already emigrated to this country, one of them settling at Dover and the other in Bradford County, Pa. Both of the brothers married and had children and it is their descendants of the fourth generation and downward who are now associated for recovering the Philip Francis Renault estates. The Reno Association claims to have secured from the Department of the Interior at Washington and from the French Government archives complete and authentic copies of the original grants, with maps and descriptions. The association has also a favorable opinion on the merits of its claim given after full investigation under date of June 14, 1872, by the late neverly Johnson of Baitimore. This present value of the property claimed is roughly estimated at $40,000,000.

Do the scores of the past week develop that alleged superiority of the League over the Association? Not that anybody has heard of. Come, Murtie, Anson, Watkins and the rest of you League blowhards, what have you to say at this stage of the fight? Won't you at least admit that the Association teams are equally as strong as those of the League?—[Exchange.

Last year there was a white horse on the grounds every time the Brooklyns won a game, except once, and on that day he broke awhy three times on his way to Washington Park. "Hard Gall" Tebeau, during his Western League career, was not a favorite with the umpires of that organization. It is related that Ben Young got mad at Pat Tebeau last season, and cried out so that everybody could hear him: "That costs you $10. I never had a bit of use for your brother George." From this it may be inferred that Ben was squaring up an old score against George by roasting his brother.

It is said that Gladiator Browning hunkered.

Just then then there was a passed ball and King scored.

The old man fell back from his short position, and as he got around to the base he seemed to be suffering from chagrin. Matters finally quieted down, and as Latham swung his bat again he looked over at Anson and remarked:

''You bet, I'll bring 'em, Ans, won't I? Did you see me bring 'em in?' And then Arlie distinguished himself by striking out.

There has been some lively ante-post betting in the Newmarket, Louisville, particularly on the Kentucky Derby. Says "Broadchurch" in the Spirit: The Melbourne stable pair, Gallifet and the Lion, have been made the favorites, mainly, I suppose, by the pressure of stable money. The odds against Sir Dixon have gone up a few points, while Baldwin's Wonderland has been so well backed that the odds against him have been materially cut down. Ed Corrigan was in Louisville the other day, and while there put $100 on Windom at 75 to 1. The coit, in training here, is a racing-looking animal and doing well. Corrigan's other Derby coit, J. B. Clay, has been let up, for reasons stated elsewhere. I think it was the intention of the Chicago stable to back Macbeth at the best obtainable odds, but in consequence of an unsatisfactory trial yesterday morning they will let him swerely alone in the books. His work, a mile-and-a-quarter spin, did not at all come up to expectations. Sully's big King Ban coit, White, is moving well, although yet quite high and feshy. BABY HUMORS And all Skin and Scalp Diseases Speedily Cured

Our little son will be four years of age on the 25th inst. In May, 1835, he was attacked with a very painful breaking out of the skin. We called in a physician, who treated him for about four weeks. The child received little or no good from the treatment, as the breaking out, supposed by the physician to be hives in an aggravated form, became larger in blotches, and more and more distressing. We were frequently obliged to get up in the night and rub him with soda in water, strong liniments, etc. Finally we called other physicians, until no less than six had attempted to cure him, ali alike failing, and the child steadily getting worse and worse, until about the 20th of last July, when we began to give him CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and by the last of August he was so nearly well that we gave him only one dose of the RESOLVENT about every second day for about ten days longer, and he has never been troubled since with the horrible maiady. In all we used less than one half of a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, a little less than one box of CUTICURA, and only one cake of CUTICURA SOAP.

C. N. COE, J. P. SCROFULOUS HUMORS. Last spring I was very sick, being covered with some kind of scrofula. The doctors could not help me. I was advised to try the CUTIGURA RESOLVENT. I did so, and in a day I grew bester and better, until I am as well as ever. I thank you for it very much, and would like to have it told to the public.
